FOSTER'S FORGERIES.

$25,000 More to Be Added to the $168,000 Found Yesterday.

His Alleged Niece Said to Be Not Related to Him.

An Order of Arrest and an Attachment Out for Him.

Every effort on the part of the Trustees of the Gratuity Fund of the Produce Exchange was made to suppress the fact that the fund victimized for a large amount by means of fraudulent and forged mortgages.

THE EVENING WORLD, however, which gets and publishes all the news, had ferreted out this carefully concealed fact, and when it appeared on the street shortly after 2 P. M. yesterday. announcing for the first time this stupendous swindle, the Produce Exchange officia's removed the ban of secrecy from their lips and posted the facts in the case on the floor of the Exchange.

To-day's developments in the case are very interesting. Another mortgage, representing a loan of $25,000, has been found to be a forgery.

This increases the loss to the fund through the dishonesty of its counsel to The trustees think this amount well represents the maximum of their loss. An attachment has been issued against the forger's property.

An order of arrest is also out for him. BUMORS RIFE AT THE PRODUCE EXCHANGE.

On the floor of the Produce Exchange this morning the Foster forgeries were the absorbing topic of conversation among the members.

They could not have occurred it was stated again and again without some negligence on the part of the trustees, and every one was on the qui vive for news. Rumors were rife that more fraudulent mortgages had been unearthed, and that the loss would exceed $200,000, and this proved to be partially true. President Orr, who was reticent yesterday, after a conference with several of the other trustees and Lawyer Horace E. Deming in his office after his arrival this morning, talked truely. talked freely.

HAVE THEY REACHED THE BOTTOM? "We have got down to the bottom of the matter now," he said, "and in addition to the amount of the thirteen fraudulent mortgages discovered yesterday, there is only one more about which there is any un-certainty. It is for $25,000, and we are not able to say yet whether it is genuine or not. All the rest I can positively state are good, and in any case the loss will not exceed $193,000."

How about the liability of the trustees for this amount?"
Oh, there is not the slightest ground for "Oh, there is not the slightest ground for charging any of the members of the Board for the loss. Outside of Mr. Foster himself I do not believe there was a single person implicated in any of his transactions. He had been the attorney for the Exchange for sixteen years, and we trusted him implicity."

President Orr said in addition that Foster, and not his firm, was the attorney for the Exchange, and that he telt sincere grief for Mr. Wentworth, his partner, whom he be-

Mr. Wentworth, his partner, whom he be-lieved to be entirely innocent of any of Fos-ter's transactions.

In reference to the appearance of the fraud-lent mortgages, Mr. Orr said:

THE SEAL WAS BLURRED.

"The Register's seal had a blurred look, "The Register's seal had a blurred look, and the certificate of recording was filled in a blank form, stamped in red ink at the bottom, closely resembling the stamp used by Bedell in the same sort of transactions.

"I know of no evidence, however, which implicates Foster with Bedell in his fraudulent operations. The latter began his forgeries eight years ago, while Foster's first transactions were in 1883."

Mr. Orr said that Foster's father had not been asked to make good his son's stealings.

been asked to make good his son's stealings. He was reported to be worth about $500,000, but was a very conservative man and made no display of his wealth.

AN ORDER OF ARREST OUT. Lawyer Horace E. Deming, who has charge of the Foster matter, was caught in his office by an Evening World reporter carry this afternoon. He declined to be interviewed, giving as an excuse that he was in a hurry to

In answer to a note inquiring whether it was true that an attachment had been issued to seize $20,000 worth of Foster's property, and an order of arrest had been placed in the Sheriff's hands, he came out of his office, and rai-ing his hands, exclaimed:

"I cannot be interviewed. The order of arrest and the attachment have both been issued, and everything else in the world has ied, and everything else in the world has been done to retrieve the stolen money.' MR. WENTWORTH WORRIED.

Mr. Wentworth, Foster's law partner, was at his office in the Produce Exchange Build-ing carly this morning looking over the papers of the firm. He looked worried and all broken

I would have believed this sooner of myself than of my partner," he said to a reporter of the Evening World." "I thought that Will Foster was the straightest man in New York."

What about his niece, who lives as his adopted daughter at Bayport, L. I.?"

It is perfectly true that she is his adopted daughter, but she is not his niece, or any relative, so far as I know. He adopted her five or six years ago and took out papers in the Court of Common Pleas.

"Do you know anything of a conveyance to her by Mr. Foster of a large amount of property?"

property?"
Nothing whatever. I did not know that Mr. Foster owned very much property, certainly not $100,000 worth. There is nothing in the office that I ever saw that showed this."

THAT HE FORGED HIS FATHER'S NAME DENIED.

"Have you any information regarding the report that he lorged his father's name to a check for $9,000 before leaving town?"
"Not the slightest. He borrowed the money from the bank and gave his own note for part of the amount I understand, and some Granuty assemblies for the rest. Identify for part of the amount I understand, and some Gratuity securities for the rest. I do not know where he is now and have heard nothing from him since he went away. I expect every moment, however, to see his death announced, and it would not surprise me at all."

all."

Lawyer John O'Conneil, who was formerly a notary in Fo-ter's citice, and whose name is on the forged mortgages, said:

"I have been associated with Mr. Foster for more than twelve years, and during that time I always looked upon him as a model maa in business and in private life. I know absolutely nothing as to the irregularities with which he is charged in his private life, and if they are true he certainly concealed thom in a most marvellous manner."

Do you know anything of his niece whom he adopted?"

he adopted?"
"Nothing excepting she is not his niece, but a young girl to whom he had taken a liking and adopted legally.
But I do not care to say anything more about that subject." And as he said he had a summons to appear at the Supreme Court and make an affidavit for an order of arrest and attachment against Foster, he hurried off. JAMES P. POSTER DOESN'T KNOW WHO MISS

LULU POSTER IS EITHER. An EVENING WORLD reporter called at the office of James P. Foster, a brother of the defaulting counsel of the Produce Exchange Gratuity Fund, this morning. Mr. Foster is a lawyer and practises at No. 154 Nassau street. There the reporter was informed that he was not in, but could be found at the headquarters of the Republican League of the United States, of which he is the President.

Here Mr. Foster was found in his private office.

Who is the young lady residing in your brother's house at Bayport?" was asked.

"The papers say she is his adopted daughter," was the answer.

"Is she his niece?" was the next question.
"I don't know."

"Has your brother made over to her his Bayport property valued at $100,000?"

I do not." GOT HIS FIRST INFORMATION FROM "THE EVENING WORLD."

"Is it a fact that your brother raised $9,000 on your father's securities?"

"I don't know. I know nothing whatever of the matter. The first I knew that he had disappeared was when I read an account of the trouble in The Evenino World last evening."

WHAT FOSTER'S NEPHEW SAYS.

William R. Foster, sr., the father of the Produce Exchange Gratuity Fund's missing counsel, is a weathy dealer in flour and a member of the Produce Exchange.

His place of business is located in the large double building No. 25 Canal street. Here he occupies the entire four stories of the building and does a most extensive trade. He is a man of about sixty-five years of age. When The Evening World reporter called there to-day he was informed that Mr. Foster was not in.

was not in.

When he made known the object of his visit to the bookkeeper that gentleman promptly stated that Mr. Wm. R. Foster, jr., was his uncle.
"Do you know where your uncle is?"

asked the reporter.

He was at this office last Saturday, and since then I have not seen him," was the an-wer.

Will was one of those fellows who had a great deal of leisure to himself," the young man went on, "and some one who attended to his business when he was away must be the guilty party. He had plen y of money, a good income and I know he would not do such a thing.

THE FORGER'S FATHER. While the reporter was conversing Wm.

The father had a far-away look in his eyes as though he were in deep thought. He bowed to the reporter, and when the latter asked him if it were true that he would make good the amount of his son's defaication if "The Trustees have not yet asked me to do so. I was at the Exchange yesterday and ... He ca led here frequently?"

"Yes, but we never talked over any of his business transa tions. I have nothing more to ay. It is an unfortunate affair."
With this the old man turned away, and, bidding the reporter "good day," sat down at his desk to write.

He knew of no vice which his uncle possessed which would be such a drain upon his income as to cuse him to commit a crime of suon magnitude as these forgeries to gratify it.

MISS LULU FOSTER IS NOT THE FORGER'S NIECT.

He did not know who her relatives were or where she would be liable to stop while in the city. Though he visited his uncle at his home quite frequently, he says that he saw very little of Lulu.
Mr. Foster's nephew denied that his uncle's sitter had deed up Pure, and that the young sister had died in Paris and that the young lady living at Bayport was her daughter. SHE HAS LEFT BAYPORT TOO.

This young lady left Bayport on a west-bound train yesterday afternoon at 2 P. M. and has not been seen since. If she has followed Mr. Foster in his flight Pinkerton's men will find it an easy matter FOSTER NOT SAFE IN CANADA.

were the forgeries charged against Foster to those which James E. Bedeil acknowledges, that it was immediately asked: "Which was the tutor and which the pupil?" Of course, these two men must be ac-quainted and cognizant of each other's mis-deeds.

He could not resort to that old dodge of "tell the gentleman I'm out" to rid himself of the reporter and to the polite request to interview him on the subject of the Gratuity Fund forgeries, he returned a very decided "No."

Supt. Baugs. of Pinkerton's Detective Agency, refused to say anything regarding the pursuit of Foster, but volunteered the information that he would be only too glad to announce his capture.

One of the most surprised and snocked by the discovery of Foster's dishonesty was Col James M. Varnum, a lawyer, at 31 Nassau street, who lives at 34 Gramercy Park, who in 1881 and 1882 occupied a suite of rooms adjoining Foster's, in the Cumberland Apartment House.

In an interview with an Evening World reporter to-day he said:

"I can hardly real ze, in fact, I am not yet prepared to believe that Will Foster is a thief. I was as intimate with him as any one could be, I suppose, and I always considered him to be the soul of honor."

"Not very weil. I did not know much about her. I never met her until after Mr. Foster moved to Payport. I have seen her only about six or seven times."
"It has been g.ven out at Bayport that she is the child of a sister of Mr. Foster's, who died in Paris," said the reporter.

Mr. Varnum shook his head vigorous y as he answered: "No, that is not so. In fat. Mr. Foster has only one sister, and she is still alive. I do not know where she is at present."

Can you tell me whose child she is?" "No. come to think of it, I can not," re-plied the lawyer.

He declined to say whether Mr. Foster was ever engaged to be married or not and refused to be questioned any further.

NOT WELL KNOWN IN THE PAST RESORTS. Foster was not known in any of the haunts of men about town in Police Capt. Really's tender oin precinct. From another source it was learned that

LA GRANGE BROWN'S BOAST.

IS IT TRUE THAT BROOKLYN SOCIETY GIRLS POSED FOR HIM?

Sensation Looms Up in the Photograph Seandal Case-Gen. Catlin Believes that the Indecent Pictures Were Taken from Life-The Fashionable Young Amateur in Judge Massey's Court Te-Day.

La Grange Brown, the expert amateur electrician, microscopist, physician and surgeon, and savant in nude feminine loveliness, who was captured in a Brooklyn saloon with a hundred or more portraits of young women, taken in the garb of Eve before the fall, and in various compromising attitudes, appeared in Judge Massey's Police Court, Brooklyn, this morning.

His trial for having in his possession obscene pictures and for offering them for sale had been set down for to-day, and he came into court with his counsel, Gen. Catlin, a young man and his bondsman, John Witey, of 85 Hicks street. Brooklyn Heights. When arrested Brown was in a state of col lapse from drink and snivered as pitifully as the famous Mr. Dolls in "Our Mutual Friend."

But to-day quite another person was he. The wh skey was out of him and he was left a pleasant, though not strong-faced young man of twenty-eight years, clad in a perfect-fitting dark suit, a shiny silk hat with a weed, and immsculate linen. One could readily understand how fascinating this young man might be to the susceptible female heart.

He is the same young Mr. Brown whose wronged young wife was granted an absolute divorce by Judge Potter a year ago, on the most damaging and unspeakable evidence.

The agents of the Society for the Suppression of Vice were there with the evidence against Brown, but Judge Massey was out of town, and Gen. Cathin agreed with them to try the case next Thursday.

Brown has boasted, it is said, that he has taken lewed pictures of several of the daughtaken lewd pictures of several of the daughters of Brooklyn's most respected families, and since his arrest several anxious fathers, paid attorneys and other interested parties have called on the agent of the Society with portraits of their daughters or the daughters of their clients for compari-on
